

DEUTSCHE BANK AND NATIONAL GALLERY CONTINUE THE INTERN PROGRAMME

Cayman, 21 August 2006: The National Gallery has been making great strides over the past few years to awaken the passion for the visual arts in our islands. In continuing with this objective it has been a dream of the Gallery to be able to offer a young Caymanian the experience of working in the Gallery prior to further education. After a successful launch of the programme in 2004, and with the continued generous sponsorship of Deutsche Bank, The National Gallery has filled the intern position for a third year.

Funding of CI$14,500.00 from Deutsche Bank for 2006-2007, has supported The National Gallery to hire their third intern – Ariana Eden. A recent graduate of the John Gray High School, Ariana is planning on attending UCCI part-time whilst at the National Gallery, for two years and then study overseas with hopes to pursue a degree in architecture. The new Intern stated “My future goals are to focus on my career of choice, which is to become a successful architect but I would also like to continue with my other choice, which is fashion design. I became interested in becoming an intern at the National Gallery because I wanted to get a feel of the working world and also to surround myself with different fields that I enjoy, which can help me in the near future with my architecture dreams”.

As a group Deutsche Bank around the world is committed to the arts in each of their many jurisdictions. Sophie Ebanks, Marketing Manager for Deutsche Bank Cayman states “Education and the arts have long been a focus of Deutsche Bank, and it is something that we are passionate about. The National Gallery has created this wonderful opportunity for a young Caymanian, and we are privileged to be a part of it”.

Nancy Barnard, Director of The Gallery stated “The experience that a year at the National Gallery will provide in terms of business and art skills will be second to none, and this internship continues to provide another opportunity for the succession of young Caymanians into the workforce. This year we had six applicants for this position, and Ariana with her pleasant nature and flair for architecture was the person who walked away with the internship opportunity.”

Deutsche Bank wishes Ariana Eden great success in her new position and congratulates the Gallery on start of the third successful year of the intern programme.
